Bio

Dinah is known for her versatility, singing everything from classical soprano pieces to gospel alto parts. She grew up listening to a wide variety of music in her parents' record collection and would spend hours dissecting and learning the complex harmonies of Eastern European folk songs and the lyrics to traditional music of many lands all by ear. She later performed in show choir, musical productions, and sang lead in a rock band. After a 10-year spell of silencing her voice, Dinah rediscovered the healing power of singing when she joined the Unity of Boulder spiritual center choir. She quickly became a featured soloist, performing in large scale productions for over 25 years. She is a Certified Vocal Coach of the Vocal Yoga Method® and 6 Point Vocal WAV Method® and has been teaching and leading voice workshops since 1999.

"Dinah has a voice that taps into other worldly places for the inner soul. She is a poised and beautiful performer who pulls out all the stops. From folk, to gospel, to classical, to inspirational music, there is nothing she can't sing without moving people to tears. When you listen to Dinah, you are lifted to another realm where hearts open and remembrance of beauty enters, especially when she sings in the higher registers where harmonics appear in the sounds of her voice. It takes your breath away. She is a true talent, as well as a trained singer and it shows in every performance I have witnessed. It's beautiful and she makes it seem effortless."

- Syntysche Groverland, Minister, Unity of Boulder

"Not only were the musical introductions personalized to our theme, they involved our group at just the right level and most of all, got them focused and attentive for the speakers and their content that followed her beautiful setting of the stage for the day!"
